Historical note

The Office of University Marketing was established in 1987 to provide unity and coordination of Iowa State University's colleges and departments when implementing marketing strategies for promotional advertisements. The main purposes of the Office of University Marketing are to develop and direct market research, create advertising themes, and to implement promotional campaigns.

The Office of University Marketing is the central resource for creating a unified visual identity, or university brand, in which every department has the same professional quality and look in their communications and publicity publications. This office is responsible for reviewing and developing marketing proposals, estimating costs, writing promotional materials for both the media and print, and bringing the final promotional product through the publication and distribution stages.

University Marketing is also responsible for creating the standards for the visual identity program for the Iowa State Athletic Department. Every item distributed, from the tattoos and shopping bags given out at the Iowa State Fair, to the athletic apparel, mouse pads, banners, pennants, mugs, pens, and other miscellaneous items must meet the guidelines set forth by the Office of University Marketing.

Collection description

This collection (1993-[ongoing]) documents the Office of University Marketing's efforts to promote Iowa State University and its various departments and units. The records contain designs for banners, promotional materials, marketing strategies, marketing guidelines, and cost estimates as well as completed costs for a variety of University advertising projects. The materials in the collection include brochures, fliers, posters, and booklets. The records also contain artifacts such as buttons, which are housed in the Artifact Collection.
